

East Barnby 12th March 2018

Great first day so far and not finished yet. The children all successfully made their beds, although clearly need more practice!

After lunch we went beck scrambling. Here the intrepid explorers surprised themselves with their willingness to have ago, their ability to fall in water of varying depths and most importantly they surprised the centre staff with their teamwork, especially with their approach to "help the aged"

Everyone got covered in mud, ended up in water of surprising depths but a smile was always to be found along with words of encouragement for each other.

If this is a reflection of what is to come I am one very happy teacher.

Now looking forward to our evening meal and then night time orienteering which involves aliens!
